

Wedding planning (with watertight contracts)

 Courtesy of K-Nicole

Some event planners help you find your own style, and some help you get through the logistics (the best do both, of course). And if you grab hold of Kelly Charles-Collins of K-Nicole, 770-476-9865, you get a planner who is also an attorney, ready and willing to help you negotiate your vendor contracts with confidence.

Because she's detail-oriented and creative but also your best wedding advocate, Kelly's clients range wide, from local brides to brides who live out of town but want to get married here. She also arranges a lot of destination weddings, and her connections in the Caribbean (she was born in Jamaica) provide her with true insider info—a blessing to brides nervous about sending their guests into the unknown.

Look for K-Nicole's Bridal Boot Camp in the spring, when couples can hold a Q&A with select vendors and get the inside scoop on how best to plan and execute the day of their dreams.

comments \(0\)

category: Wedding Planning

digq this | add to del.icio.us | reddit | share on facebook